About the KinShip project:
Tramore Valley Park is home to the KinShip art project which responds creatively and critically to the ecological and climate action challenges we face as a society today.

This ongoing creative project, set on a mound of former city waste, asks us to rethink our relationship to this public park and to make kin with all the different species that make it their home, place to play or rest.

Kindly supported by Creative Ireland

Getting there from the city centre by bus - Take the 213 from South Mall to South Douglas road and use Half Moon Lane to get to the Park pedestrian entrance near the sports pavilion block.
